Henderson Point casino standoff

Harrison supervisors hear opposing views at emotion-packed meeting

BY AMY PICKICH

It was standing room only Tuesday night at the Gulfshore Baptist Assembly in Pass Christian as Harrison supervisors heard arguments from both sides of the proposed Henderson Point casino site.

Board attorney and hearing moderator Joe Meadows had to calm the vocal crowd numerous. times as members of Spectrum Gaming of MS, Inc., and Concerned Citizens to Protect the Isles and the Point Inc. voiced concerns.

Some citizens in support of Spectrum donned shirts that read: "Jobs for the people, money for the school and care for the community." However, the majority of those present wore anti-casino stickers.

The most audible objection came from opponents when Spectrum presented the board with a letter of endorsement from Pass Christian Mayor Ted Lawyer.

Concerned Citizens maintained they are not against gaming or Spectrum; they are against the proposed site, which they claim is residential and unsuitable for a casino.

"The commercial establishments in Henderson Point are less than one percent; 99 percent is exclusively residential," Concerned Citizens attorney Hank Ross said.

Spectrum insists the site is commercial and legal for their planned 30,000-sq.-ft. countrywestern themed casino.

Spectrum also said they plan

Bay-Wave School Board reviews punishment policy

BY AMY PICKICH

In lieu of recent discipline problems at area schools, the Bay-Waveland School Board took steps Monday to update the school's corporal punishment policy.

Superintendent Paul Tisdale suggested modifying the policy, which allows belt spankings, and creating a standard paddle for use in all schools in the Board President Gary Yarborough requested Tisdale set paddle specifications for board approval at the next meeting. The board also discussed methods to make parents aware of the school's policy on corporal Tisdale reported a continuing rise in enrollment and problems verifying residency of students enrolled.

The enrollment rise also prompted Tisdale to suggest forming a committee to look at options and suggest a remedy for overcrowded classrooms, such as adding classrooms or building a new school.

"We need additional classrooms...And we need more than two to three year plans, we need seven to ten year plans," Tisdale said.

The board approved a public meeting to seek input and volunteers for a planning

Bay High Principal Sandra Prator and alternative school teacher Jo-Dell Beckham updated the board on the progress of the program.

Beckham said currently 11 students are enrolled in the program and three are being evaluated. She said some of the students are drop-outs who were able to return to the school system.

"We're serving a wide range of ages and problems...There are some that if we hadn't started this program, they'd be gone," Beckham said.

Cable complaints

Cablevision vows improved service

BY LIZ HAAS

Susan Tremaine of Cablevision promised the Bay St. Louis City Council and citizens Tuesday better service.

The council called a meeting with Cablevision to discuss problems with the service and the new rate structure.

Spectrum officials described plans for landscaping, wetland and traffic safety improve-ments. They also said the casino would provide some 700 jobs for the local community.

Spectrum engineers drew laughs from the crowd when they said the 160' x 160' barge will be secured in place and designed to sustain the force of storms.

Supervisor Robin Metcalf quesioned the casino's impact on the environment and the structure of the Bay St. Louis bridge if the casino did not move in the event of a hurricane.

TRAFFIC According to engineer Terry Moore, Spectrum will provide traffic help by adding a decelleration lane off Highway 90 and turning lanes westbound on Highway 90.

"We feel like traffic improvements will provide safe traffic flow in and out of area," Moore said.

Spectrum engineer Dennis Finnegan said the casino would attract some 430-450 cars per hour on a peak day. He said "the site can support gaming."

Finnegan also recommended other safety modifications including increased roadway

Colonel Joseph Andre, an engineer for Concerned Citizens, said because of the increased flow of traffic in the area, homes and businesses will be significantly impaired.

Andre' also said school, safety and emergency vehicles. would be slowed and that a traffic light would be dangerous in the area.

Ross said the residents living off Ponce De Leon, which is adjacent to the area, would also be affected because the area is only accessible by Highway 90. Concerned Citizens chairman Nonnie DeBardeleben questioned Finnegan's traffic increase projections, citing special events at the casino that would bring even more traffic.

SCHOOLS

"I am for economic development and preserving the Bay, but what you have overlooked is the benefit the school children will reap," said Pass Christian resident Hank Rodrique.

Pass Christian School Superintendent Phillip Terrell said, "We'll support any industry that is legal, any industry that will enhance education.'

The Pass Christian Progressive Civic Club has also endorsed the industry.

The Pass Christian School District adopted a resolution accepting a declaration of a gift donation from Spectrum of 2.24 percent of the casino's revenues.

Metcalf also questioned the donation Spectrum has pledged to the school district.

"If it is such a golden opportunity, why don't you give it to a community that is standing in line for it?" asked Henderson Point resident Janet Scafide.

"Is everything to be sacrificed because they are going to give a gift to the school?" another resident questioned.

Meadows told the crowd the supervisors will send a resolution to the gaming commission, which will ultimately decide the site issue. No action was taken Tuesday night.

The supervisors adopted a resolution in August opposing a casino at Henderson Point, but decided to give Spectrum a chance to present their plans before a resolution is sent to the gaming commission.

The Pass Christian Board of Alderman rescinded a previous resolution supporting the concerned citizens.

Saturday marks the annual Hancock County March of Dimes 1993 America Team Walk.

In 1992 there were over 250 walkers raising a total of $9,265 for the fight against birth defects.

Hancock organizers are hoping to top the 1992 mark and also have more companies and businesses represented.

The walk begins at 9 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis bridge and ends at Buccaneer State Park.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. The 10 kilometer distance takes about three hours to walk. A WalkAmerica Weary Wagon will pick up tired walkers and take them to Buccaneer State Park.

The Team Walk chairman is Hancock County State Senator Bill Johnson, and he urges everyone to give support, either by walking or making a donation.

There will be team awards and individual awards, too. Walkers who turn in $50 will receive a WalkAmerica tshirt, while those who turn in $75 will receive a t-shirt and a sports cooler.

Retired Senior Volunteer Program, (RSVP) members will man the registration tables.

There will be rest stops located at Bay Oaks Drive, Coleman Avenue and Sears Avenue.

I urge everyone who can participate to do so, as I am sure you will have a very good time while helping a very good cause.

For further information call Senator Johnson at 467-2770, or Ida Macuick, 467-6535.

The high school football game many of the residents of the Bay-Waveland area have been waiting for is set for J.D. McCullouch Stadium Friday night.

It will be the annual meeting of the Bay High Tigers and St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws.

A large number of players from the respective schools know each other, as many are neighbors and some have even played on the same team in football, baseball, soccer, etc. over the years.

Bay High is at 2-4 for the season while St. Stanislaus is 0-6.

Usually there is no favorite in the annual affair between the cross town rivals.

Recent games have been very good, and I would urge both Rock and Tiger supporters to get to the game early, as it should be standing room only.

The high flying Hancock High, after defeating d'Iberville's Warriors last week, should be ready for East Central in Hawk stadium.

East Central is the Division 8, 4-A leader, while Hancock is 2-1 in division play.

Hancock, with a performance like last week, could possibly pull a big upset Friday.

The Hawk football squad would like to play before overflowing bleachers full of Hancock High supporters.

I hope to see you at the game Friday night. Remember, you need to support the team of your choice.

Did you hear about the sellout of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's performance of Nunsense II—The Second Coming? Good news is, an encore performance is scheduled Sat., Oct. 16 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 17 at 2:15.

Tickets for the musical comedy are $7.50 each at the door of the theatre located at 301 Boardman Avenue.

Don't forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's October Business After Hours set for this evening from 5 to 7. Sponsors are Craig Foster of Edward D. Jones and Mike Meyers of State Farm.

The event, to be held at 845 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, is open for chamber members and guests.

I hope to see you at the chamber's After Hours.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

President's appointments in Mississippi still held up

If the Mississippi Democratic Party didn't already have enough problems, there's another internal struggle of major proportions over the handling of judicial patronage in the state under the Clinton Administration.

At stake is the naming of a new U.S. Attorney in both the northern and southern federal court districts, plus a new federal marshal.

What appears to be a standoff has developed between two key backers of President Clinton during the election over how the federal jobs should be filled and who should fill them. The two principals in that struggle are former Gov. William Winter, who had been co-chairman of the Clinton campaign in Mississippi, and Walter Thompson, the Clarksdale attorney who was Clinton's finance chairman in Mississippi.

Nearly 10 months after the new Democratic administration took office in Washington, Mississippi is one of a few states where such plums as U.S. Attorney and U.S. Marshal have not been filled.

Winter had thought he had the go-ahead from the Clinton Administration to create a judicial nominating committee to screen applicants for the posts, and came up with three recommendations for the attorneyships in each district and one marshal spot.

Also having input with Winter was former Cong. Mike Espy, now the Agriculture Secretary in the Clinton Cabinet, who cochaired the Clinton campaign in Mississippi. But with Espy taking the cabinet post, his role in the Mississippi patronage situation became somewhat

At the outset when Winter created his committee, Thompson became quite unhappy, because Winter had ignored him in picking committee members. Thompson's beef was that Winter had failed to deliver the votes for Clinton in Mississippi, where he (Thompson), asked by the Clinton campaign to raise at least $100,000, had produced $387,000 for the campaign.

Meantime, Thompson, who had already been dealing directly with some of the top figures in the Clinton organization, particularly Mac McLarty, now Clinton's Chief of Staff, had already been asked to submit a list of his recommendations for the judicial spots.

In the Southern district, the top recommendation for the attorneyship by the Winter committee was Brad Pigot, a respected Jackson attorney, who seems to have been cleared all the way to the President, after having an FBI background check and an audience with Atti-Con Janet Bank with Atty. Gen. Janet Reno.

Understood from the start between all parties was that a white U.S. Attorney would be picked in the Southern district and a black in the North

and a black in the North.

But the Winter committee's recommendations for the Northern district went sour when the two top candidates—both black — Victor McTeer, a Greenville attorney, and Emanuel Smith, a Tupelo attorney, both appeared to have been disqualified.

McTeer, the top choice, withdrew after his background check revealed some 16 IRS liens for nonpayment of taxes against him, and Smith was found to have some $21,000 in IRS liens against him for both personal and employee withholding taxes.

The third recommendation of the Winter committee was Leland attorney Josh Bogen, who is white. Bogen had no difficulties getting clearance on his background. But this would upset the formula for filling the two federal attorneyships. Evidently it became a sticky political problem for Winter and also Espy.

So, a flurry of activity by Espy and Winter became evident: either go out and find another black lawyer to try to push through the screening process, or try to rehabilitate Smith's viability as a candidate. The latter is what has apparently happened.

When the Smith tax situation became public, within a few days, Smith came forth and produced receipts showing that he had now satisfied the IRS liens, which were on file in the Lee County chancery clerk's office.

Smith also suddenly got the endorsement of the Lee County Bar Association, and the Lee County Democratic Committee. Winter maintained that it had already been known by the judicial nominating committee that Smith was in arrears for taxes with the IRS, but had set up a payment schedule over five years agreed to by the IRS.

However, resurrecting Smith by his belated payment of tax liens immediately caused concern of Clinton Administration people that it could be confronted with the Zoe Baird syndrome—the after-the-fact payment of Social Security taxes for a domestic employee which resulted in withdrawal of Baird's nomination for Attorney General.

Besides, unsettling published reports revealed that Smith had been among a group of erstwhile Democrats in the 1987 gubernatorial campaign included in an endorsement of Republican Jack Reed under a full page ad in the Northeast Mississippi Daily Journal which carried a caption at the top "We're Switching."

Smith contends that he did not intend to switch parties, and the ad was merely an endorsement of Reed, a hometown candidate, by some Democrats.

Meantime, Thompson, who just recently had brunch with McLarty in Washington, very likely has enough clout with the Clinton Administration to veto the Smith nomination unless some type of compromise is negotiated.

Thompson has kept his list of recommendations for the feder-EYES—Page 5A

Panama Canal Commission must "buy American"

The Panama Canal Commission, an independent U.S. Government agency established to operate and maintain the Canal, will be required to replace worn-out vehicles with American made trucks, announced U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

"I believe Teddy Roosevelt would not have had it any other way," said Taylor after his amendment was approved by the House of Representatives. "Until the Canal is completely turned over to the Panamanian Government in 1999, our government should take every opportunity to assure U.S. taxpayers' dollars are used wisely."

After having implemented the Panama Canal Treaty of 1977, Congress determined that it was important that Congress have oversight of Canal operations until the Canal is completely transferred to the Republic of Panama on December 31, 1999.

Congress was primarily interested in safe and efficient operation of the Panama Canal and assurance that funds would be wisely spent on the operation and maintenance of the Canal.

be wisely spent on the operation and maintenance of the Canal. Taylor's amendment is a part of the $52 million "Panama Canal Commission Authorization Act of 1994."

"If the American taxpayer is going to spend $52 million to ensure that U.S. and international cargos are safely and efficiently transported through the Canal and pay for the operation, maintenance and improvements of the Canal, Congress ought to take every step to require that American goods are purchased whenever appropriate," said Taylor.

While the Panama Canal Treaty contains a preference for the acquisition of goods made in Panama, Mr. Michael Rhode, assistant to the chairman of the Panama Canal Commission Board of Directors, says the Commission is not strongly opposed to Taylor's amendment.

"For the motor vehicles at issue, American cars have been found to be the most appropriate choice for the Commission, and will likely remain so for the near future. For this reason, the Commission believes it can accept the restriction contained in Representative Taylor's amendment without undermining or specifically violating our treaty obligations," Rhode said.

Taylor's amendment directs the Commission to purchase no more than 35 trucks at a cost that may not exceed more than $18,000 each. The bill has been sent to the Senate for approval where it is expected to pass.

Health Care Reform

I listened to the president's address on health care before a joint session of Congress not expecting to hear a lot of specifics. I did not come away with many, but we'll get those over the next several months, I'm sure.

The speech was used by the

The speech was used by the president as a starting point on the health care debate. He said that he believes our health care system is "broken" and that the fix is a government takeover. I certainly do not agree that our health care system is broken, but I do think there is plenty of room for improvement — but turning it over to government bureaucrats to run is not the way to go.

To his credit, however. I

To his credit, however, I think the president realized that he has to listen to all sides of this issue and not try to squeeze out those who disagree with his approach. It must be an open discussion and cooperation so we can hear and address all concerns. Health care is too important to become a partisan issue.

As this plan unfolds, I will be looking at certain areas of concern. I feel that any plan must address rural health care, community health services, malpractice reform and provide incentives for general practitioners.

As we look for ways to improve health care, costs must be contained and accessibility improved. But, in the process we should not accept any plan that sacrifices quality of health care in this country or our rights to choose our own doctors and hospitals. I am going to have to be convinced that this plan will not end up as bigger government and less care.

I want to know how much it will cost, who pays and what will Americans get for their money?

A CNN/USA Today postspeech poll found that 45 percent of Americans believe the Clinton health care plan will increase what they now spend on health care and only 16 percent felt it would decrease.

The concerns do not stop at health care. Many Americans want to make sure that any plan does not hurt the economy. A time/CNN poll found that 41 percent of Americans believed

Veterans can refinance VAguaranteed loans in two ways - through a regular refinancing loan or through an Interest Rate Reduction Refinancing Loan (IRRRL). An IRRRL is used strictly to reduce the interest rate on a loan and requires no property appraisal or credit underwriting, and therefore, no out-ofpocket expense to the veteran.

There are currently more than 880,000 veterans with outstanding VA-guaranteed home loans with interest rates of 9 to 9.99 percent. More than 700,000 still have loans at interest rates of 10 percent or more. At an average of $90,000 for a VA loan, the minimum monthly savings would be $257 million for those 1,580,000 loans if they were refinanced at a current low rate of 7 percent.

The monthly payment on a VA 30-year loan of $90,000 at a 10 percent interest rate is $790. The monthly payment on the same loan is $724 at a 9 percent rate, $660 at 8 percent and $598 at 7 percent.

There has been a considerable increase in the past year in the number of veterans getting VA-guaranteed loans to buy or refinance homes.

Through June 30, the end of the third quarter of the current fiscal year, 87,921 veterans had refinanced their VA-guaranteed loans strictly to lower the interest rate. That is more than one-third of the 263.061 total VA-guaranteed loans approved for the ninemonth period.

By comparison, in all of fiscal year 1992, ending September 30th, 50,129 veterans refinanced their VA-guaranteed loans to lower the interest rate.

That is just under 19 percent of the 265,895 loans approved for fiscal year 1992,

The VA no longer sets the interest rate at which veterans can borrow VA-guaranteed loans. Veterans can negotiate the rate with private lending

Olsen to participate in ammo plant conference

Harold "Buz" Olsen, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, has been invited to participate in a conference for communities impacted by the layaway of Army ammunition plants. Representatives from approximately 13 communities are expected to attend, along with government officials. The conference will be Oct. 14-15 in Memphis and is sponsored by the Secretary of Defense's Office of Economic Adjustment and the Department of the Army.

In addition to local community representatives, conference participants will include contractors from the Army plants, Army officials and members of the President's Economic Adjustment Committee.

Part of the agenda will be devoted to the Armament, Retooling and Manufacturing Support (ARMS) Initiation which could play a significant role in the economic revitalization of the impacted communities. Other sessions will be devoted to environmental issues and federal assistance programs.

According to the Office of Economic Adjustment, the objective of the conference is to disseminate information to facilitate community and facility contractor economic adjustment activities, promote the exchange of information between various locations affected by the plant closures, and enhance Army, contractor and community interaction.

Olsen will participate as a panelist to discuss the lessons learned from the closure of the Mississippi Army Ammunition

He said, "This is a very opportune time for the Army to hold this conference. It will be a learning and sharing experience with other communities who are going through or have been through a plant closing."

Absentee voting changes approved by Justice Dept.

Portions of a new state law affecting absentee voting in Mississippi have been approved by the U.S. Justice Department.

COOKING UP STORM

Katy McGuire

Mini-cheesecakes bring many compliments

With the changing season, I've made a few changes as well in my life, such as moving from my beloved Gulf Coast not many miles away to Mandeville, La., on the north shore of Lake Pontchartrain, across from New Orleans.

It seems that I've spent many, many hours of my life "on the road" between the Gulf Coast, where I was born, and New Orleans — with many and many a round trip between the two places!

And, I shall continue to do so. for how could I ever forsake the Coast?

And, for your followers of "Cooking Up a Storm," let me assure you that I'm just a phone call or a stamp away from you when you need advice on a cooking problem, or want to give me one of your good cooking tips or one of your special recipes. And, you'll be seeing me on the Coast as well.

Like many others, whether New Orleanians or Coastians, my family beat a path between the two areas from the time that I was born; and I grew up partly in New Orleans, partly in Bilox-i, going to school in both places (at different times, of course!)

My sons and their families moved to Mandeville some years ago, and have spend much "road time" since coming to the Coast.

Sue Breath McGuire, my son Jack's wife, is from Bay St. Louis, as many of you readers are aware. So, now I've made the move, and the whole family's in one city — but we're still "riding that road" back and forth to the Coast.

Now that I've unpacked all the "cooking gear" — or, rather the kids have done it for me — and am ready to start cookin' up that storm again, I'll be cooking those familiar recipes and trying out some new ones for you.

A day or so ago, anticipating a visit from a couple of friends, I grew hungry for some sort of sweet taste of the Coast, so I thumbed through one of my favorite cookbooks, the "Centennial Celebration Cookbook, that stellar collection by the Women of Christ Church in Bay St. Louis.

I've reaped compliments every time I've offered a try of Alice Brameyer's minicheesecakes (a feature of Christ Church's annual Silver Tea). So here's:

MINI-CHEESECAKES Crust:

Butter or Margarine Graham Cracker Crumbs Filling:

2 (8 oz.) pkgs. cream cheese 3/4 cup sugar

3 eggs, separated 1 cup sour cream

2 Tblsp. sugar

1 tsp. vanilla Butter muffin pans well, side and bottom. Shake in crumbs slightly, and carefully remove from pans. May be decorated with bits of maraschino cherries, pineapple, etc. Makes 48 mini-sized or 24 regular size, and freeze exceptionally well.

P.S. My new address is 4300 Hwy. 22, Apt. 266, Mandeville, La. 70448; and phone number is 1-504-626-9679, Hi, Everybody - and let me know any ideas you have or foods you want written about!

until pans are completely coated; turn over on a cookie sheet and shake out excess crumbs. Beat sugar, cream cheese (softened) and egg yolks until well blended. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, and fill prepared pans three-fourths Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes, until light golden. Remove from the oven and cool. They will fall, forming a hollow. Mix the sour cream, sugar and vanilla, and spoon into the hollows.

Return to oven and bake 5 to 10 minutes more, until sour cream mixture is set. Cool

College Football Highlights

For Oct. 16

In one of several huge games around the country this weekend, the Tennessee Volunteers are in Birmingham, Ala, to face the Alabama Crimson Tide. Alabama has won seven straight in this series, but the last three games could have gone either way. Last year, on their home field in Knoxville, the Volunteers were stopped only by a late interception and lost 17-10. The Tide's winning margin in 1991 was five points, and in '90 only three. This year? Closer still.

In State College, Pa., Penn State hosts Michigan in what promises to be one of the season's most interesting matchups. Not just because they're new Big Ten rivals, but because of their history. There isn't any. Believe it or not, Michigan and Penn State have never played, which was a surprise even to NCAA statisticians. Their results against common opponents over the years give us plenty to go by, though. This year, for instance, the Nittany Lions and Wolverines have both met Iowa. Penn State beat up on the Hawkeyes 31-0, and Michigan was a 24-7 winner two weeks ago. So we're splitting the difference: the Lions will win by a touchdown.

Nebraska faces a tough game at home against Kansas State. The Cornhuskers beat the Wildcats 38-24 last year in Tokyo, but last year Kansas State was 5-6 and a noncontender in the Big Eight. This year the Wildcats were undefeated going into last week's game with Kansas, and look ready to at east threaten the streak of 24 straight Nebraska wins that began in 1969.

In the unpredictable predictions department, try Stanford at Arizona. The Wildcats won 21-6 last year in Palo Alto and 28-23 in Tucson in '91 — both years in which Stanford was a better team and finished higher in the Pacific-10. Stanford won 23-10 in '90, when it was 5-6 and Arizona was 7-4. If the pattern were to hold, the Cardinal would win, but we don't think they will. This year Arizona is for real.

Our forecasting average has held steady through the first five weeks of the season. As of Oct. 2 we've picked 730 games right and 260 wrong, a percentage of .737. And we're just getting warmed up.

Thursday, Sunday and Monday Oct. 14, 17-18

L.A. Rams, 20—**Atlanta, 14
(Thursday) Before the Rams' 38-27 win over the Falcons on the last day of the 1992 season, Atlanta had won four straight from L.A. As they both sink fast in the NFC West, they'll meet again in four weeks.

Cleveland, 23-**Cincinnati, 16 (Sunday) In Week One the Browns' defense was all over the Bengals, sacking David Klinger six times on the way to a 27-14 win. Cleveland hasn't captured both games against Cincinnati in six years.
**Dallas, 28—San Francisco, 26

This could be a memorable game, because both teams got stung early and are playing divisional catch-up. The Cowboys 30-20 NFC Championship win last January was their first over S.F. since '80.

**Detroit, 17—Seattle, 12 The Seahawks have beaten the Lions easily four of the five times they've met; both are champions of inconsistency. Two weeks ago Detroit lost to Tampa Bay and Seattle beat San Houston, 24-**New England, 10

If the Oilers have any hope of making it to the playoffs, they'd best figure out how to beat the Patriots, who've won five of the last six in this series. Pent-up frustration may do the trick.

Kansas City, 30—**San Diego, 21

With a healthy Joe Montana the Chiefs are solid, but without him they're not. The Chargers win with field goals and lose with TD's. S.D. shut down K.C. 17-0 in the '92 AFC Wild Card playoffs.

New Orleans, 32-**Pittsburgh, 24 This series is even at five games apiece, the most recent one a 9-6 Steeler win in '90. This may be a Super Bowl matchup someday, but not while the Steelers are great one week and awful the next.

**N.Y. Giants, 27—Philadelphia, 23 This would have the makings of an epic NFC East struggle if it weren't for the absence of Randall Cunningham. But turnabout is fair play: Last year the Eagles beat the Giants 47-34 and 20-10. Washington, 28-**Phoenix, 21 Five weeks ago Mark Rypien went down with a sprained knee ligament, the Redskins deflated and the Cardinals won their first game at RFK Stadium in 15 years. This is a crucial game for Washington.

L.A. Raiders, 24—**Denver, 23 (Monday) The Raiders desperately need to win at Mile High which they've done two of the last three times they've played there. In '92 the Broncos beat L.A. 17-13, then the Raiders blew Denver out, 24-0.

Rotary marathon set for December

An anticipated field of 1,500 runners will participate in the fourth annual Mississippi Beach Rotary Marathon on Dec. 4. The Hwy. 90 course is considered by many to be the fastest marathon course in the country.

The race is certified by The Athletic Conference (TAC) and is accepted as a qualifying race for the Boston Marathon. It is expected to draw participants from some 21 states and other countries as well.

There are four races: marathon (26 miles), half-marathon (14 miles), 10K (6.2 miles) and 5K (3.1 miles).

Ocean Springs will be the start for the marathon; Gulfport for the half-marathon; Long beach for the 10K run; and Pass Christian for the 5K run. All runs will complete in Pass Christian.

With the 5K run, there is a "team challenge," similar to the New Orleans Corporate Cup awards. This provides an excellent opportunity for businesses, civic groups, etc. to form teams and challenge similar organizations. All teams must consist of four members of which there is at least one female and one team member must be 35 years of age or older.

The races are being sponsored by the Gulfport Rotary Club, SportsCare at Memorial Hospital, and Harrison County Tourism Commission. The

PRC club offers wilderness skills, backpacking course

Those wanting to learn wilderness survival techniques can escape for a weekend in the forest without leaving the classroom during a two-day wilder-ness skills and backpacking course offered by Pearl River Community College.

Pearl River's ecology club is sponsoring the course, which is open to the public from 12:30-5:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 5-6 in Pearl River's Science Building auditorium.

Wilderness guide and instructor Eric Bajon will explain map and compass reading, equipment selection, outdoor cooking, trip planning, hiking techniques, back country safety and more. Bajon's teaching techniques include lectures, slides, demonstration and hands on participation.

Bajon recently taught his course at Tulane University in New Orleans.

Cost for the course is $65. A $25 non-refundable deposit is required at registration with the remaining $40 due on Nov.

Those wanting to experience the outdoors firsthand may attend an overnight guided backpacking trip in the Desota National Forest on Nov. 12-13.

The pace will be relaxed with emphasis on familiarizing participants with trail techniques and equipment. Equipment may be rented for a nominal fee.

Cost of this trip is $40 with a $10 non-refundable deposit required during registration. The remaining $30 is due on the date of departure.

Registration for both courses is Oct. 23. To obtain a registration form or for more information contact Susan Nodurft, PRC science instructor, at Pearl River Community College, Station A, Box 5057, Poplarville, MS 39470, or call Nodurft at 795-6801 ext. 346.

In presenting the awards, Smith, who serves as the Astronaut Office's representative for the Space Shuttle Main Engines, the Solid Rocket Boosters and the External Tank, told the recipients, "What you have received today is a very prestigious award and is symbolic of the extraordinary work you have done. I consider you all to be leaders in your areas."

Smith also remarked about the importance of what all the employees at Stennis Space Center do and their contributions to the space program, reminding them to never lose sight of the fact that what they do is unique and is greatly appreciated by all the astronauts.

Sverdrup Technology Inc.'s Bobby Baxter, plant lead technician with the High Pressure Industrial Water systems, was recognized for his knowledge and expertise in the systems which have proven invaluable to the Space Shuttle program. Baxter has helped maintain the superb level of support normally provided without interruption. His ability to perform switchovers to backup generators during power outages has prevented delays several times.

Johnson Controls World Services Inc.'s Wayne Bowles, an electrician, was recognized for providing expertise during a hectic two-day troubleshooting job on a faulty switch at the Stennis Space Center main power substation. The test schedule for Space Shuttle Main Engines could have been in jeopardy, but Bow-les worked tirelessly to trace the switch problem which helped in the rapid restoration of electrical service with no impact to the testing schedule. Rocketdyne's Sonny Brown, technical associate with Test Support Services, was recognized for major contributions in improving the efficiency and effectiveness of operations.

Brown's extensive experience in turbopump processing safety allowed him to recognize the discrepancy and take the necessary actions to resolve the problem. Brown was cited for these contributions and his continuous quality workmanship, dedication and positive work attitude.

Rocketdyne's Doug Dean, technical associate with Test Support Services, was congratulated for performing extensive weld repairs of critical flight and development hardware at SSC and KSC in direct support of hot-fire testing, flight, and hardware delivery scheduled and has made major contributions to the program in support of flight engine works at SSC and Kennedy Space Center in Florida by providing tooling to repair the high pressure fuel turbopump and main injector t-bolts and by skillfully performing intricate welds in difficult access areas.

Rocketdyne's Jeffrey Hansell, lead engine systems engineer with Development Engineering, received a Snoopy award for his exceptional technical and administrative efforts during the multifunctional team development of the highpressure oxidizer turbopump bearing health monitoring strain gage configuration and installation process development.

Hansell's extensive coordination efforts helped ensure that all possible configurations and required installation procedures were addressed and that all processes would guarantee function without failure. The bearing health can now be monitored in flight, and in most cases has increased acceptable turbopump utilization to multiple flights.

Johnson Controls World Services Inc.'s Eugene Necaise, quality assurance engineer/ auditor, was honored with the Snoopy for introducing the idea of applying for American Society of Mechanical Engineers coded stamp license through the ASME board of directors.

Necaise made all necessary contacts, prepared a quality plan, obtained a demonstration vessel and obtained both a vessel fabrication license and a repair license, significantly reducing time and costs.

The Silver Snoopy Awards program was initiated over 20 years ago and represents the astronauts' own recognition of excellence. Each honoree received a silver pin flown aboard a Space Shuttle during a previous mission, a letter of commendation and a certificate.

NASA adopted Snoopy, the popular Peanuts character, to serve as the "watchdog" for flight safety and to promote excellence in every phase of space flight to help ensure mission success.

Hats off to cafeteria food

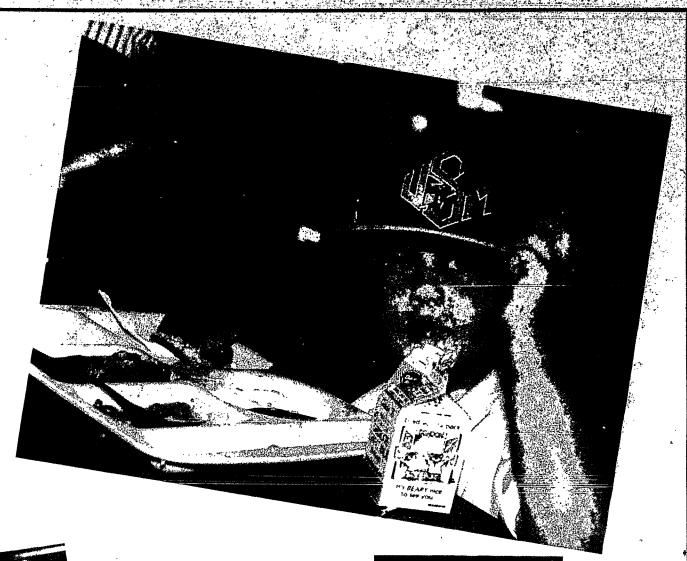

St. Clare School in Waveland paid tribute to National School Lunch Week Oct. 11-15. The cafeteria was decorated each day for a different theme chosen by the sixth grade class.

Monday was "Hat Day," and baseball shirts and caps depicting team logos adorned the walls, while oversized hats adorned the heads of pre-school class members.

Celebrate the Gulf

Marine resources highlighted at Pass Christian festival

The third annual Mississippi Gulf Coast 'Celebrate the Gulf will be Saturday, Oct. 23 at the Pass Christian Harbor, Pass Christian, during the hours of 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., according to Sue Chamberlain, chairman.

Celebrate the Gulf 1993 is a day-long educational and entertaining look at the resources of the Gulf of Mexico and how we use and enjoy them. The event has drawn several thousand visitors each year.

"We are ecstatic that the U.S. Coast Guard has agreed to an encore performance of their dramatic sea-air rescue demonstration this year. The demonstration stole the show last year, and we think it will be something special to see again this year," said Chamberlain.

The focus of the more than two dozen exhibitors participating in the Celebrate is conservation, environmental awareness and education.

Organizers, however, also said there will be entertainment, and fun for the whole family including a kids' catch-and-release fishing rodeo, and an art contest that had more than 8,000 entries from schools across the region.

Winning entries in the art contest will be on display at Edgewater Mall the week prior to the Celebrate.

Chamberlain said other highlights of the day would include the Pass Christian Dive and Rescue Team (with canine assistance), and the return of the popular "Recycle for Redfish" program sponsored by Mississippi Power Company and Mississippi State University. Mississippi Power and Mississippi State University are cooperatively participating in a program to see if redfish can be raised commercially in aquaculture.

The fingerlings are a product of that project, a MPC spokesman said.

There also will be a touch tank of marine life from the Other exhibitors include the Aquarium of the Americas. Mississippi Wildlife Federation, the Gulf Coast Conservation Association, National Marine Fisheries Service, among others.

"There will be plenty of food and entertainment.

Arrangements have just been made to have John Wilson and his Zydeco House Rockers Cajun Band," said Chamberlain.

The grass will probably require fewer rounds with the mower, but it's wise to take care of certain chores that need to be done during the fall months, says seasoned horticulturist Joe Symons.

Now in his 30th year of keeping more than 300 acres mowed. manicured, planted, pruned, pest-free and looking presentable for daily visitors to The University of Mississippi's Oxford campus, Symons tells how he and his crew tackle fall yard-keeping chores. Keep on top of general maintenance chores.

Those include leafraking and general clean-up; keeping old blooms pinched from flowering plants, along with watering during dry spells (to stretch beauty of summer flowers until frost); and renewing mulch around shrubs, trees and annual beds.

Divide perennials.
Some of the more common perennials are day lilies, hostas, peonies and irises. While this chore doesn't have to be done every year, if the clumps get too large, blooms will decrease in size and number, advised Symons.

Apply preemergent to control spring weeds.

It's difficult to give general advice for weed control, however, said Symons, "It's best to identify particular problem weeds and be sure to use a product approved for that weed."
Apply lime and fertilizer.

The key is knowing what your particular soil needs by testing the soil every two to three years, "Fall is the best time to apply lime, which is slow reacting, and fertilizer can be applied spring through fall. Plant trees and shrubs.

"Fall is a wonderful time for planting trees and shrubs. Wait until deciduous trees like water oak and maple are dormant, advised Symons. "Evergreens. can be planted from now until real cold weather.'

Plant spring-flowering bulbs, pansies and ornamental cabbage.

Plant daffodils, crocus and other Dutch bulbs, as soon as they're available in garden centers. Plant tulip bulbs around the end of November after they have been pre-cooled in refrigeration. Pansies and ornamental cabbage planted now will add color to a yard until a severe winter freeze.

Use Round-up and Poast for extra weed control.

"Round-up is safe to use for weed control around trees and in shrub beds as long as you don't actually get it on the shrubs or tree leaves," advises Symons. "Poast is a real helpful product that will keep some grass from going to seed and cuts back on spring growth. It works on grassy types like Bermuda and crabgrass when they are actively growing.'

Free trees offered with membership

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during October 1993.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten shade trees are Red Oak, Weeping Willow, Sugar Maple, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Pin Oak, River Birch, Tuliptree, Silver Maple and Red Maple.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Nov. 1 and Dec. 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

Forestry facts

Soil erosion can be a big problem, but the best known protection for soil erosion is forest. Forest trees soften the impact of falling rain, and their roots hold soil tight.

Fallen leaves also blanket the earth with a spongy layer of organic matter.

Forests protect the land from soil erosion and help keep water clean. Planting trees in areas vulnerable to soil erosion is a good solution.

Growing trees can be a sound investment for Mississippi landowners. In the next 50 years, the demand for wood is projected to double.

Mississippi has some of the best climate, soils and tree-growing conditions anywhere. With proper management, most Mississippi forestland can provide an annual return-oninvestment from 6 to 9 percent above inflation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by

TIMBERLINE

By Mark Jamieson County Forester

Timber volume grows across the nation

In this edition of "Timber-line" I'd like to try and bring some balance to some of the negative nonsense that is being aired and printed these days about the so-called decline of our American Forests.

Gator captured

I'm inspired to do this to some degree out of a practicing forester's frustration at all the misinformation being bantered around, but also because of a recent published book by Douglas W. MacCleery titled, American Forests: A History of Resiliency and Recovery.

The 60-page booklet is published by the prestigious Forest History Society as one of its issues series. It is an excellent, easy-toread-and-comprehend publication which I wish every American interested in forest conservation could read from front to

Warning: It might make you wonder whether there is anything substantive behind radical environmentalist groups' charges of "rampant timber destruction" and their hysterical demands to "stop the timber

Here are just a few of the documented facts to be gleaned from this Forest History Society booklet:

-Following 200 years of decline, the area of forest land has stabilized. The U.S. has ries and Parks about our curabout the same forest area today that we had in 1920. (Mississippi has a half million more commercial forest acres today then in the early 1960s.)

-Burned acreage from wildfires in America is down from 20-50 million acres in the early 1900's to 2-5 million acres today.

Statewide, Mississippi has seen a similar reduction in annual fire losses. Hancock County's has been reduced by 50 percent in the last ten years.

The actual volume of standing timber in U.S. forests is about a third greater today than it was 40 years ago. (Again, the trend is similar in our own state.

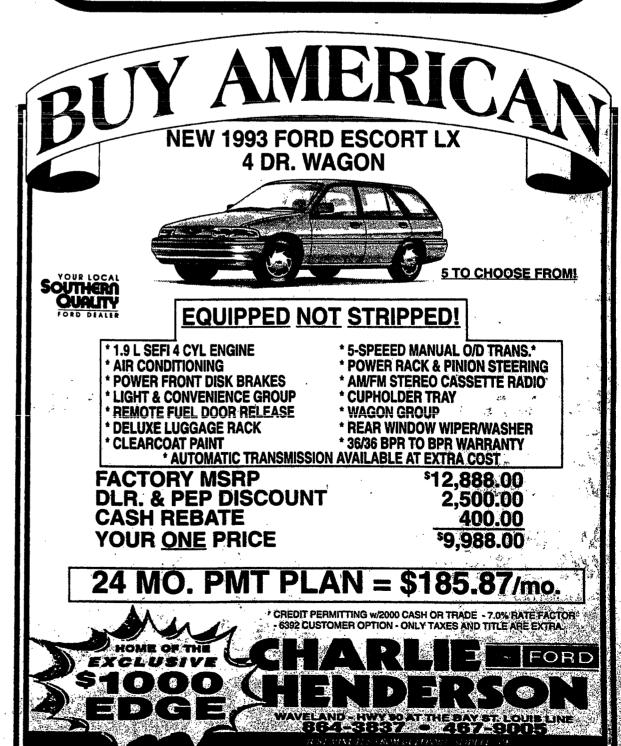

-Populations of deer, turkey, elk and many other wildlife species have increased dramatically. (Ask the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisherent deer and turkey populations compared to two or three decades ago. Out of sight!)

—Tree planting on all forest land rose dramatically after World War II and reached record levels in 1980's. (We reforested over 367,000 acres in Mississippi alone during 1988!)

-Forest growth nationally has exceeded harvest since the 1940's. (The margin got rather thin in several specific areas of Mississippi a few years ago, but overall we are still growing far more trees then we are cutting).

American Forests: A History of Resiliency and Recovery is full of such documented truth about the condition of our forests. You can order a personal copy for about $4 from the Forest History Society, 701 Vickers Ave., Durham, N.C. 27701 (919-682-9319), or ask your local library to put one on the shelf.
